

Increase Mobile Visibility to Drive More Sales

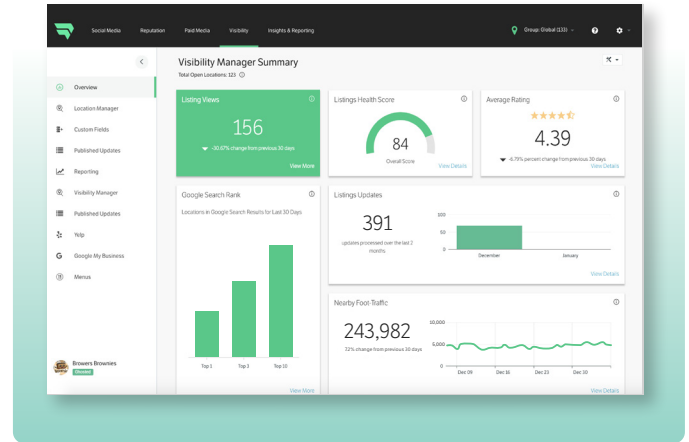

Everything from consistent location information, to social consumer engagement, and even store reviews can impact your brand's visibility on mobile devices. When consumers search for what product or service you sell— whether it's browsing reviews, maps or voice search – recommendations are made based on the data available of your brand's closest locations. Consumers expect consistent and accurate business information when deciding where to shop, dine, bank or play, so getting this right is critical to increasing your brand's Proximity Search Optimization™, driving consumers in-store, and ultimately providing a great mobile consumer experience. If you want to increase revenue across your locations, you must make your locations more visible in searches, thus requiring all elements of Proximity Search Optimization to be positively impacted.

Accurate & Consistent Information are Key

Accurate information ensures customers arrive at the right place, looking for the products or services you offer, during business hours. When this information is consistent across multiple networks and directories, it increases search engine trust and improves each location's visibility on every mobile device.

Across All Your Locations

85% of consumer engagement with your brand is across the local digital pages of Google, Facebook, Apple, Bing and Yelp, making it imperative to keep all of these virtual storefronts up-to-date and accurate. But if you're a multi-location brand with dozens, or thousands of locations, managing all these pages is a daunting task.

Meet Visibility Manager

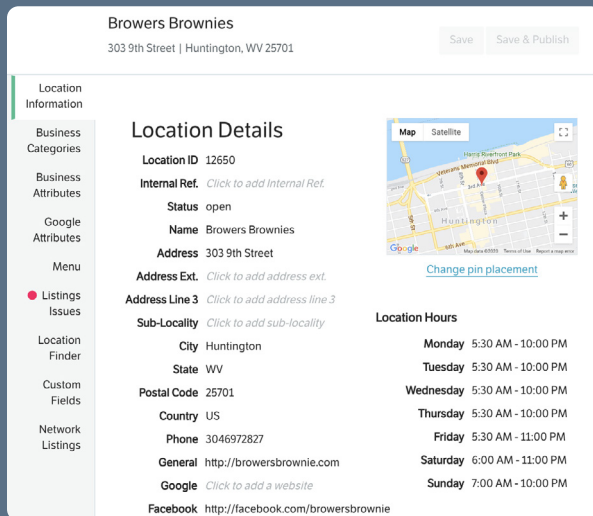

Visibility Manager puts each of your business locations right into the fabric of every mobile device – in the operating system, and in the apps, voice assistants, and services consumers use most (even your own app) making your brand's nearest location a consumer's first, and most obvious choice.
